Aim :-Minister for Women and Child Welfare Taneti Vanitha on Thursday said the State government had unveiled “YSR Kishori Vikasam” programme to address the violent mood swings being experienced by teenager during adolescence. Young teenagers often find it difficult to cope up with the mental and physical changes that they go through. They do not confide in their parents and seek for assistance from the peer groups. It makes matters worse as their friends are going through the same changes and cannot offer much assistance. The state government opines that lack of awareness is the main cause of this problem. To address this situation, and to help teenagers to control their mood swings, the state government has announced a new project, names YSR Kishori Vikasam Scheme. Under this project, teenagers will receive guidance from the experts. In this article, you will learn about the various aspects of this scheme.

PRR&VS Govt.college,Vidavaluru seeks to empower adolescent girls as to enable them to take charge of their lives the program through its interventions aims at bringing about a difference in the leaves of the adolescent girls opportunity to realize their potential,

Women Empowerment Cell Activities

2017-2018

Women and gender sensitization committee was constituted in our college to create awareness for the students, staff and other administrative staff free from harassment or gender-based discrimination. As our college is women institution, this committee empowers women that create a healthy relationship in the society.

The College is a co-educational institution, wherein girl students are provided ample opportunities to learn, empower themselves and contribute to their families by way of their education. As majority of the students are of first generation, coming from rural agrarian background, The Women Empowerment Cell (WEC) of the Institution works hard to instill confidence among the girls students, enrich their knowledge base and empower, both in formal and informal methods. The WEC tries to make them realize their potential, stands forth in protecting their on-campus interests and make them fit for their future roles. The WEC encourages them to pursue higher education and employment. Nearly 200 students involved in this programme and teaching and non-teaching staff also participated.

Since, it is a co-educational college, at times there may be issues of gender inequality creeping in. In view of the rural background of the girl students, their inherent inhibitions and hesitation to take the lead roles in various activities, the WEC plans events and programs of gender sensitization spread over the entire academic year. The WEC conducts programs like awareness on personal health and hygiene, women rights in general, educational and employment opportunities for girl students and challenges faced by them in different walks of life. The WEC conducts regular counseling sessions for girl students to make them aware of different issues. Men students are also given a chance to participate in WEC programs.

In order to achieve gender equality on campus, girl students are drafted in various institutional committees. They are consulted in decision making pertaining to the different functional aspects of the institution. Regarding their safety on campus, girl students are being trained up in using DISHA app, launched by the Government of Andhra Pradesh. Though there are no incidents of ragging and eve-teasing on campus, the WEC frequently invites personnel from the police and judiciary, conducts awareness programs about the constitutional provisions for women safety and security.
